"i swear i'm doing this right.." he muttereed, scratching their head. they felt a warm feeling in their chest, a sense of gratefulness and appreciation hitting them. it wasn't the fact that he was so dedicated to fixing their belongings- it was more of the fact that he always went the extra mile to make sure they were comfortable and happy even if he wasn't in the greatest position himself. they always came first and foremost above anything and sole knew that they were beyond blessed with this angel standing before them. then those three words came into their mind- yes, they had been practicing it whenever he was gone, from the mirror talking to the words being repeated over and over, but had never really found the right moment to confess it with their own voice. sole had their own insecurities, they weren't very good at speaking after all, but the moment sort of just caught up. unbeknownst to them, they blurred out those three words without a second thought; "i love you." Danse: he'd drop whatever he was doing, the weapon finding its way to the floor within seconds. it was probably more broken than before, but something important had just occurred and danse was in the midst of processing it. the words would struck him in the chest almost immediately, making his heart beat loudly through his ears. he wasn't sure if he heard that right but there was literally no other phrase he could mistaken that for. even if he wanted to purposely mistaken it with another saying, his heart kept going back to those three sweet words that replayed in his head. with a quick turn of his body, he walked up to sole who stared at him with soft eyes and knelt down to hug their torso, laying his head on her lap. he didn't know what got into him- the feeling in his body rumbled throughout him and he couldn't quite control his actions. sole would let out a confused hum and stroked his hair, allowing danse to hold them a bit tighter. with a soft, yet nervous voice, he'd whisper against their clothing loud enough for them to hear what he had to say. "i love you too, sole. i-i mean it." they would then bend over a bit to wrap their arms around his head gently, feeling the steady movements of danses body as he breathed slowly, closing his eyes.Deacon:with a nervous laugh, he'd turn to face them with a growing smile. he was just getting used to having sole as his other half and their sudden action had caught him off guard. with a playful tone in his voice and a few taps of his foot, he'd tease them, "i'm sorry, i didn't quite get that, sweetheart." with a pout, which deacon found utterly adorable, sole would write it down on a piece of paper and present it to him. deacon would walk up to them and snatch the paper out of their hand, ripping it to shreds without sparing a glance. "not what i was looking for." with a grin, sole would jot down something quickly and shove the paper in his face to ensure that he would at least read the message this time. "what're you gonna do if i don't give you what you want?" deacon would smirk in response, an evil glint forming in his eye, "this." before sole could react, he would tackle them onto the bed childishly and move his fingers around their torso. sole would let out a few empty, breathless laughs as deacon continued to tickle them mercilessly. "i'm not letting you go so easy!" they would tap out of deacons wrath, speaking in a strained voice, "love.. you..!" he would take them in his arms and roll to his back so he laid down and sole was on top of him. another laugh escaped his mouth as he locked eyed with sole, moving a piece of their hair behind their ear. a silent moment was shared between the two individuals, their eyes locking once more in a loving manner. deacon allowed a hand to caress his lovers face, "i guess this is the part where i confess my undying love for you." they friskily shrugged in response. sole would lay on deacons chest as he stroked their hair gently, placing a small kiss on their head. "i love you." somehow, someway, deacon was gonna make sole speak more step by step- it was his new goal that he was determined to commit to.Hancock:he would be the fastest to react, turning quickly and soon appearing in front of sole without skipping a beat. he'd stick his hand out for sole to help them up on their feet, to which they did, and he'd wrap them in a hug for a few moments before pulling back. hancock would lean closer to sole, his breath tickling their nose as he whispered loud enough for them to hear. "say it again." they would murmur, placing both their hands on either side of hancocks shoulder. "i love you." sole blushed intensely as he placed another quick, yet soft peck on their lips, muttering once more. "again." they repeated those words before hancock kissed them a little more longer this time, his breath growing warmer and warmer, "one more time." sole would slightly grip hancock clothing a bit tighter, mumbling against his lips as they let out a soft breath, "i love you, hancock." with the sound of his name leaving their mouth for the first time in their life, he felt a new fire grow in him allowing him to deepen the kiss. his name fell ill to his ears when others called it but their voice had sung it out as if it were a masterpiece and he wanted it to hear it over and over until he was literally deaf. sole would move back with their arms around his neck and eventually fall into the bed. hancock would fall on top of them, using his elbows to prop himself up, and continued to passionately kiss sole until they asked him to stop. wherever the night took them, he was willing to show sole how much he truly loved them.Maccready: "say what now?" he would look over his shoulder, an astonished look on his face. sole would tilt their head cutely at him and he'd frantically put the weapon down as he rushed over to them. "hey, hey wait. did you just say what i think you said orrrr was i just hearing things?" oh god, he hoped he wasn't hearing things. sole would look at him straight in the eye with a shy smile as they fumbled with their hands anxiously, "i love you." mac looked like a deer in the headlights and would remain paralyzed out of shock, almost as if he was dazed. sole would then furrow their eyebrows in concern, hoping that they didn't say it sooner than he was comfortable with. before they could place a hand on macs shoulder, they felt a strong pair of arms wrap around their waist and lift them off the ground, twirling them in circles. a loud, joyful laugh would escape his lips as he continued to spin with sole in his arms. they would notice the childlike grin that fell on his face and the pink hue dusting his rough cheeks, feeling a warm swell on their chest. mac would slowly put them back on the ground and steadied himself, the grin never leaving his face. he would gently hold both sides of soles face and gently lay his forehead on theirs, a happy look in his eye. "sorry, love. i got overexcited there, but i can't help it," sole would lock eyes with him, a smile of their own painting on their face. "you're just so amazing and love cant really describe what i feel for you. it's much more than that. i-" he let out a soft sigh, allowing his thumb to brush over their cheek. "i don't know, words can't do me justice right now. i'm just thankful to have you in my life." mac would close his eyes as sole relaxed their hands on his chest as they shared a quiet, yet loving moment together. Nick Valentine: it was strange. something in him sent a shock throughout his body, and he'd feel a new type of emotion set in his chest. it was an unfamiliar feeling, but it definitely wasn't anything negative. despite that odd experience, he had turned around slowly, folding his arms. he found it somewhat difficult to keep his cool around sole at that very moment and wanted nothing more but to hug them and tell them how much he loves and appreciates their company and themselves as a person. "well, that was unexpected," nicks lips would curl into a joyful smile as his eyes met with soles, "i never thought i'd be alive to see the day you'd speak to me. this poor old man worried about never hearing what you sounded like. after all, it would be my biggest mystery." sole would let out a silent laugh as they walked towards nick. he would watch as they grabbed his tie and gently pulled him down to meet their lips. with his hands on their hips, he'd return the kiss sweetly. after pulling away, sole would sign something with their hands to which nick understood. "i'm guessing the case is solved then, detective?" nick would bring them closer to his body as he bent down to press his lips against theirs. he spoke against their mouth, a small chuckle evading in the process, "definitely. i wouldn't have it any other way." Gage:he didn't dare to turn around, especially not with that deep, cursed blush staining his face. gage felt himself choke on his words as he tried to muster up a reply, short or not. as he went along with sole on their adventures, he always stole a glance and wondered often what their voice would sound like. he'd imagine a voice that was sort of raspy, deep in a way, and serious was something that would really fit the image of an overboss, but their voice was anything but that. gage himself would've never guessed the sweet, smooth sound leaving their lips and he felt himself paralyze in result. then he felt a soft hand touching his shoulder, allowing him to jolt in surprise at the sudden warmth. damn, he really must've been lost in thought if sole was able to reach him beyond arms length. gage would notice the concerned look on soles face due to his lack of response, and he'd continue working on the weapon in front of him to hide the inevitable blush painting his cheeks. "sorry, boss. you kinda caught me off guard there." a few moments of silence were followed after and sole would display a poignant expression, realizing that maybe he didn't feel that way for them just yet and that they practiced way too early for their comfort. they would sigh plaintively while dragging themselves to bed, wanting to sleep their sullen feelings away. of course, this would not go unnoticed by gage who felt a bit guilty for not responding faster. it was just so difficult and new for him to experience these emotions and he had little to no knowledge on how to respond. as sole turned over to face away from gage, they continued to hear only the sounds of the noise outside of fizztop grille but would eventually hear a familiar voice reach out to them. "i'm not good with words and you should know that by now," sole would look over their shoulder, only catching the sight of his back, "but i'm glad i heard yer voice, it wasn't what i was expectin' but i definitely ain't disappointed. now go to sleep, i'll join you in a sec." sole would feel their heart beat as they let out a warm, happy noise, causing gage to become more flustered. they closed their eyes for the remainder of their time, drifting off to sleep with a content feeling in their chest. the next morning, sole awoke to find their weapon repaired completely and polished down to the bone with an additional, shiny switchblade placed besides it. they smiled softly. they knew from the bottom of their heart that this was gage's way of saying that he loves them. How would romanced companions including Preston react to not realizing that fem!sole left a kiss/lipstick mark on their cheek or neck until someone points it out?Hope this ask doesn't come off as too NSFW?: How'd companions react to someone pointing out the hickies Sole left on them the night before or the ones left on her by them? so i had two requests that were nearly similar and decided to put them together! i mixed it up a little so there was a variety. this was a cute & silly request. i hope you enjoy!
